

Teaching facilities

The Department of Diagnostic Imaging & Radiation Medicine has state of the art teaching facilities meant to equip learners with all the necessary skills required in this field.

- Three Lecture theatres at the School of Medicine; one with a capacity of 360 students and the other 240 students each. Each lecture hall is equipped with an LCD projector and two large side plasma screens.
- Tutorial rooms within the department equipped with LCD projectors and screen
- KNH radiology department containing various equipment including 128 slice CT scanner (Siemens), 16-slice CT scanner (Philips), 3T MRI unit, (Philips), Angiographic/intervention suite, 9 high definition ultrasound units, digital mammographic unit, 2 fluoroscopic units, 4 routine and 2 digital radiography units,
- KNH radiotherapy
- AKUH nuclear medicine unit
- DIRM- IGU unit containing 4 high definition ultrasound units, 1 fluoroscopy unit, 1 routine radiography unit
- Kikuyu Hospital radiology department containing 1 colour ultrasound unit, 1 general purpose radiography unit
- Departmental physics and photography lab
- Gertrude's Hospital radiology department- CT scan, ultrasound, fluoroscopy, general radiography units.